Comments and Interpretation on the example:

That social network map was made with a young woman (16) who was in custody of youth welfare at that time. The density at that moment of time was not too high (0,27), but the indicators for isolation and loss of autonomy were already visible. There were several professional assistants involved, who were clearly connected to the family-sector. The friends were all connected to the professional system as well. There was not a single person, who represented a separate resource outside of that network (no isolated). The youth worker in the group home held a star-position.
